GRINCH

OVER THE YEARS

The Old Globe has presented the musical Dr. Seuss's How the Grinch Stole Christmas! for 25 years, but this beloved story has been around for much longer. Learn all about the twists and turns the story has taken over the years to reach you onstage today!

By Sonia Desai

1948: Theodor Geisel (Dr. Seuss) moves to La Jolla, California.

1966: The animated Grinch television adaptation airs. The cartoon features the voice of Boris Karloff and has been a Christmas classic ever since.

1984: Dr. Seuss is awarded a Pulitzer Prize Special Citation. He was the first (and still only) person to receive this prestigious honor for writing children's books.

1957: The book How the Grinch Stole Christmas! is published. Dr. Seuss was 53 years old when the book was published, the same age as The Grinch!

1977: A television prequel called Halloween Is Grinch Night airs.

Vanessa Hudgens and Guy Paul, 1998.

1998: The first production of Dr. Seuss's How the Grinch Stole Christmas! premieres at The Old Globe. This production starred a young Vanessa Hudgens (of High School Musical fame) as Cindy-Lou Who!

2006: The Grinch opens on Broadway. The same year, The Old Globe did a workshop of the show where they introduced a new shopping number, "It's the Thought That Counts." Both Broadway and San Diego tried out different shopping numbers. The San Diego version was considered the better song and was added to the Broadway show in 2007.

A new Grinch costume makes its debut. It's made out of eight pounds of dyed green yak hair!

2006: The first Old Globe Grinchmas Tree Lighting Ceremony takes place on the Globe's Copley Plaza. This year marks our 17th annual tree lighting, which delights thousands of San Diegans every year.

2011: The first sensory-friendly production of the show is presented.

2003: The incredibly popular song "You're a Mean One, Mr. Grinch" from the animated cartoon is added to the musical. Initially, the song was used as Old Max's introduction song.

2007: The popular song "Fah Who Foraze" from the animated cartoon is added to the show.

2020: An audio version of the show is broadcast in conjunction with KPBS Radio. Even though the COVID-19 pandemic shut down the theatres, The Old Globe kept the spirit of Christmas alive through quarantine. The radio production featured beloved and long-running Grinch veterans, actors new to the show, and even a former Who kid (Charlotte Mary Wen) returning all grown up in the role of Mama Who.
